Clarence's Comments:

Hi everyone, Janice and I just want to pass along our thanks for all the hard work everyone did to make the Grandchildren's rally such a great success. Special thanks to David and Betty Leeper for hosting the event and arranging the activities. A trip to the farm for the men to see David's workshop. A visit to the Bluegrass museum and the Science museum where we learned about coal mining in West Kentucky. And of course the favorite Airstreamers activity, eating. We got to visit Mama's Table and of course no trip to Owensboro is complete without a visit to Moonlite BBQ. Some of our members even went bicycling several mornings. ## Region 5 “Fall Harvest Days” Rally

September 12 - 16, 2012

Hey Airstreamers, here's the scoop!! You can look forward to some great entertainment this September at Tipton. Levi Riggs, will be back by popular demand on Thursday evening. He's 27 years of age, a native of Danville, Indiana, and is one of country music's brightest and fastest-rising new entertainers. He creates a style of country music all his own. The new father of a baby girl, he lives the country lifestyle he sings about by visiting with growers and providing seed recommendations at area farms. He opened recently for country singer, Justin Moore, playing to a crowd of 7500 people Saturday evening we will have a musical group called “Hogeye Navy.” They are an acoustic, shanty-singing band whose repertoire expands to include the traditional music of Ireland, Scotland, England and North America. Their music tells tales of the Tall Ships, Great Lakes, Rivers, and Canals & Pirates. They perform annually at the “Feast of the Hunters’ Moon” festival in West Lafayette, Indiana, dressed in period costumes. Friday night entertainment will be announced later. Remember the rally has 30 amp service and water with dump station available. There is a weekend rate, first timers discount and if you sign up to show your rig off at the open house, you will receive a $5 refund.

Door County, Wisconsin Caravan

August 20 - 26, 2012

Door County is a peninsula with 300 miles of shore line. It is like portions of the East coast in the midwest. The Door County peninsula enchants visitors with its 300 miles of shoreline, five state parks, cherry and apple orchards, and artist colonies. The narrow peninsula - only 75 miles long and 10 miles wide - provides an astonishing variety of attractions. Visit art galleries one day, spend the next hitting the golf course and use a third day to pick a delicious bucket of fresh cherries followed by a picnic on the beach.

Door County is home to the nation's oldest professional resident summer theater company, which performs in an outdoor amphitheater in Fish Creek. Picturesque communities, including Baileys Harbor, Gills Rock and Sister Bay, offer historic points of interest that reflect the area's Scandinavian and other original ethnic settlers. Museums showcase the county's rich maritime history. The only state-owned golf course can be found in Ephraim. A winery in Egg Harbor uses local fruit for its wines. A ferry takes visitors to Washington Island, just off the tip of the peninsula, and to smaller Rock Island, once the private estate of a millionaire investor and now a ruggedly beautiful state park. The scenery dazzles year-round.
